What a way to start the new year. 17 shooters, four 490+ scores with other great scores down the line. It's been a long time since we had most of the club high masters on the line together but the results show how and why they earned their classifications. Looking down the results, there are a number of you that will be getting a card from the NRA with a new classification if you keep up your performances.

What I don't see is enough new beginning shooters. The challenge for the coming year is to bring in a new shooter. It's time to become the mentor and guide to some shooter, young or old, to help them on their way. A large part of the success the shooters of PCGC have enjoyed has come from helping promising shooters to become better. Part by working with them and part by raising the bar to help reset the goal and objective of those that thought their personal performance had peaked. Let's keep the legacy of sending the best shooters out onto the range.

SURPRISE! Michael Carter was the match winner with 492-27x as he picked up the prone rapid and slowfire match wins. High Master class winner was Rick Crawford with 492-19x and the sitting match win. Gary Shannon reappeared on the scene after almost a year off by winning the off hand match with 97-3x. Another missing shooter, Michael Cameron, won the Master class with his 488-14x over Evan Hess by one point. The combined Expert-Sharpshooter-Marksman class was won by David Keys with a fine 480-13x. Justin Keys won the combined class prone rapid match as he fired his first clean. Wonderful shooting by all and those that didn't meet their goals, there will be another match on Feb. 5. Start dry firing, visualize and prepare.

See you on the firing line.
